Severe Raid On Krupps

LONDON, July 4 (Reuter) .-R.A.F. Blenheim bombers carried out daylight precision bombing from a low level on Bremen this morning within an hour or two of the attack on the port during a continued R.A.F. night offensive in which Essen, the home of Krupps Works, was also heavily attacked.

An Air Ministry communique issued to-night says that a large factory in the dock area was bombed from a low level, some aircraft coming down to 50 feet.

Direct hits were obtained followed by fires and explosions. A goodsof the city were also attacked. A goods train and aircraft on an nerodrome were machine-gunned.

CAPE FLATTERY ON MAIDEN VOYAGE HERE

Another new American Mail Line freighter—the Cape Flattery—second of the new C-1 type tennage vessels built by the Scattle-Tacoma Shipbuilding Corporation, arrived in the Colony yesterday on her maiden voyage to the Far East.

She is a sister ship to the Cape Alava, which aroused much favourable comment among shipping men when in Hongkong a few weeks ago: The Cape Flattery is similar in every respect. She has a net tonnage of 4,100 tons, and can carry 6,802 tons of cargo. Her length is 418 feet, beam 60 feet and depth 27 feet and ten inches. No passengers are being carried, although there is accommodafor eight persons in four luxurious sintercoms. Having been completed only recently, the freighter is the last word in modernism, being entirely made of steel, with air conditioning and every modern convenience.

Commanded by Captain J. O. Story, the freighter left Portland for the East on June 12, and averaged Morning Service on Sunday, July 13. a little better than 14 knots on the way out. She carries a crew of 44. Captain Story was formerly in command of the freighter Satartia, which was in the Colony about ten days

A considerable quantity of cargo, consisting of lumber, diesel oil, flour, paper, etc., and 355 sacks of mail, was unloaded while the vessel was in Shanghai, Seven other ships which are now being constructed for the American Mail Line are expected to be in service by next year. They will be known as the Cape Cleare, China Mail, Island Mail (launched on June 21); Japan Mail, Scattle Mall Tacoma Mall and Portland Mail. The Cape Flattery is expected to loave for Manila to-day. Inspector Andrew Wright, of the Hongkong Police, has returned to the Colony from Australia after four months' leave. 'It is understood 'that he will resume duty at Central Police station next week.

British German "reserves of aircraft," but little attempt to explain the term to the public.

Why, when the production of aircraft is counted in thousands a year, do we see comparatively few warplanes in action at a time on either side?

That is what the average citizen wants to know, and doesn't find out.

will try to explain the mystery-but first, I am afraid, I must add to it by saying that there is a multiplicity of factors in this question of reserves —and they are all pulling in different directions.

Fighter Reserves

Consider one type of fighter. aircraft — the This type, because of its functions, its high speed, its small size, and consequent ease of reproduction, is regarded as an "expendable" type.

A very large reserve of this type of aircraft is needed, whether it be employed in defence or in offensive sweeps.

In offensive sweeps the reserve of aircraft needed would be higher—though not-much-because-fighters which crash over enemy territory cannot be recovered.

Now consider the pilots for these aircraft.

If employed in defence, the reserve of pilots required would be comparatively small, except in a crisis. But in offensive sweeps the reserve must be larger.

In the first case you see, pilots of our aircraft, if shot down, are often "recoverable," while in the second case they are not —they remain in the hands of the enemy.

"Luxury" Craft

Now take an aircraft at the opposite end of this scale—the Sunderland.

These planes, because of their complexity, size, expense and slow replacement, are not regarded as an expendable type, and are therefore not used on uneconomic missions.

Furthermore, they are comfortable aircraft to fly in, and do not put the same stress on their crews that the smaller, more uncomfortable and faster aircraft impose.

Hence the question of reserves of aircraft and crews for this large type of aircraft cannot be judged at all by fighter standards.

Now look at another aspect—damage caused in a fight or by anti-aircraft fire, or-by landing in bad

Whystery B.e.sepves

Air Commodore P. F. M. Fellowes, D.S.O.

Here again the problem varies with the type of aircraft concerned, being affected greatly by the part of the world in which the damage is done.

A Long Life

instance in and around Britain larger reserves of bomber aircraft are required to maintain first-line strength than would be required in the Middle East.

Weather conditions are more difficult here-and. of course, the opposition from Nazi fighters and anti-aircraft fire is much fiercer.

On the other hand, reserves in the Middle East —though less affected by these factors—must be large enough to meet the greater difficulty of replacement.

Fortunately, the technique and maintenance of the R.A.F., and the quality of its machines, are of a high order.

Our planes, then—subject to the fortunes of war -have a reasonably long

This factor, by itself, reduces the size of the reserve we need. But the very excellence of the aircraft makes repair work a lengthy business, and so, paradoxically, increases the needed reserve again.

Complications

Again, because we are a widely-spread Empire, the time required to pack, load and transport—and then to unpack and reerect in the land where operations are in progress -enhances the need for a large reserve.

And there are still more complications.

We must not forget that pilots and air-crews are only human beings. Living under high nervous stress, they must be treated and considered more like accumulators than normal routine workers.

POCKET CARTOON "Poor Heinrich, even his best friends won't tell him."

They can only be used a certain number of times and for a certain length of time before they use up their nervous energy and have to be given not only prolonged rest but change of occupation.

Also, of course, we must take into consideration the intensity of the war.

Probably the most expensive form of warfare in reserves is the Blitz system, where everything is thrown in "regardless" —particularly the divebombers.

To maintain a Blitz over one week, the reserves of crews for frontline aircraft may be twice as high as it is for ordinary bombers or fighters.

The fully-trained crew of a bomber may take a year to train, and of a fighter, three-quarters of a year. Aircraft of either type, of course, can be built in a much shorter period.

Man-Power

It follows, therefore, that the production of trained men needs even more intensity of effort than is required for the production of aircraft.

And this situation complicates our question of reserves yet a little more by raising the demand for training air-

From all this-without going into figures which must be secret—we can at least see one thing plainly:-If we hear of a country producing, say, 30,000 aircraft a year, we can safely assume, after deducting training aircraft and the necessary reserves of all types, that only a very small proportion of that number is available at one time for first-line operations.

One-tenth is a fair proportion, I think—and of that reduced force, 50 per cent must ordinarily be kept for defence.

All the same, this rather comforting analysis must not be allowed to affect our judgment of what could be done in one great moment of carefully-prepared, intensive effort, such as an invasion of this country.

Nazi Plans

In such a moment—though the effort could not be sustained for long—the Germans could effectively bring a very large number of aircraft, supplemented by gliders, into action against us.

My own opinion is that they have been building up their reserves for some such effort. -though whether it will break East or West is still to be seen.

If we knew how many gliders or troop-carriers they had built, we could forecast their intention with confidence—for it is against these islands alone that this particular form of aircraft is vital to any chance of success.

Hitler Damned With Praise

Poem Reads Two Ways

NEW YORK, May 16 .- The "New York Times" to-day published a poem written in the French classic style which it said appeared in the newspaper "Paris Soir" some weeks ago and which to all appearances sang high praises of Hitler.

An octave of alexandrines, it was so cleverly put together, that by separating the alexandrines on the cesura so as to form two stanzas of eight the poem turned into verses praising Britain and damning Hitler.

This is the original French octave:

Aimons et admirons le Chancelier. Hitler L'eternelle Angeleterre est indigne de vivre: Maudissons et ecrasons le peuple d'outremer; Le Nazi sur la terre sera scul a survivre. Soyons donc le soutien du Fuehrer allemand, Des boys navigateurs finira l'Odyssee; A eux seuls appartient un juste chatiment; La palme de vainqueur attend la croix gammee.

This is a free translation, line by line, of the above, but with the lines split to form the two verses:

With love let us praise Everlasting England . Let us curse, let us raze On earth, the Nazi band Let us then bear support

For the boys plowing the sca By whose sole effort Victory shall be Hitler, the chancellor, Is unworthy of life. The trans-Channel mentor-Sole survivor in strife ---For the German chieftain Shall the Odyssey fade, Just punishment obtain For the swastika glaive.

HIGHLY SYNCHRONIZED in its present day streamlined form, with ever-changing methods of attack and defence, basketball, the greatest of American indoor athletic pastimes is the game that can boast of over 18,000,000 active players throughout the world.

Speed And Combination

This fast-motion sport found its way into the world in 1891, when Dr James Naismith, its brilliant inventor set up two peach baskets and used a soccer ball and thirteen rules at the Springfield Y.M.C.A. in Massachusetts to start eighteen young students off on a game that was to take the world by storm.

In its infancy, basketball was merely a passing fancy, but down through its rapid changing history, the game has developed into a scientific sport of athletic masterminds, where fundamentals such as dribbling, feinting, shifting of feet, hands and body-screening, shooting, cutting and stopping, must be mastered to meet the changing situations.

Probably emphasised to a greater degree than in baseball, the other great American game played in the floshes of brilliance in tuneup Colony, is the fact that complete sessions and should give the Indians co-ordination and team co-operation a tough tussle. The beer - squelching Brewers have been simmering in red-hot conflagration since that bad break in the season's opener, and broke all records last week with a dual display of "platter - crossing" might, reminding us of an overwhelming basketball score, In the big Beer Bubblers' run at-

This good-natured centrefielder, a real threat at the plate in every Brewer game since the start of the season, is just about the most effective "low ball, right field" hitter at the Chatham Road ball park. The pressure kid is a favourite

"Leonard's delight," not a chocolate har nor a sóda fountain special, but a phrase used to show Captain Dave Leonard's happy frame of mind, put in its appearance all over the bambino's features last week each time rookle Gerry Gosano hurled one of those fast slingers across the pan.

The burly third sacker has visions of youthful Gerry branching out as the acc stabman on the H.B. mound staff, and was all a-flutter at the showing of this young fireballer in his first appearance on the hillock. Chung Hwa Maroon fans are pinning their hopes on moundsman Al Lau's iron clad right arm, that wily old baseball leader grandpa Leung, who is known as the grand old man from the north, and plenty of rain in big buckets-full around the 5th inning to "hold that score down."

Weekly Wind-up

Last Saturday's near brawl in the Mohawk v. Chung Hwa Maroon game starts the old "hulla bailoo" arguments off once again with a blg bang-It was a pretty sight; while it lasted: yeah, pretty lousy-It's about time the wise ones woke about the system of getting referces for the games.

The local loop is about the only organized baseball league in the world we've ever heard of, where admission is charged, (50 big cents) and where referees work gratis.

Fifty cents is a lot of money for these ball games—Fifty cents can get a person into any big league ball park to see the New York Yankees murder that ball-It's enough eash to see Bucky Walters dazzle them over, on the mound at Cinclimati or to watch Leo "Lippy" Durocher's daffy Dodgers play real ball over in Brooklyn, with a solid bleacher seat thrown in.

Why not form a referees association, similar to our local basketball referees association. Chinese Maroon hurler Al Lau seems to have pulled a real fast one on his critics, with two stellar "iron man" mound performances so far this year. Dizzy Dean, remember the old

"dizzler" now with the Chicago Cubs?—He was recently appointed a Cub coach at double his active playing salary—Next in line for the draft: Benny McCoy, .Connle Mack's U.S. $45,000.00 beauty. Gerry Gosano has the goods that produces starry pitchers-With those Stanley Mohawks on the move inland, the Iroquois Tribe seems to have lost a lot of that old sting and zip-Fact is, there doesn't seem to be any of that marauding spirit which characterized their very performance during the past winter.

The New York Yankees, our favourites since the days we started our A,B,C,'s when Miller Huggins, Lou Gehrig, Babe Ruth, Tony Lazzeri, et al., were in their heyday, appear headed for the wellknown pennant trail once again-Joe McCarthy's faith in that sensational rookle keystoning due, Phil-Rizzutto and Gerry Priddy, is already beginning to bear fruit.

Axis Exchange Manipulation In New York

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH". TOKYO, July 4 (Domei). - The recent zooming of Japanese Dollar bonds on the New York market despite the continued strain on Japanese - American relations was attributed by Mr Telji Katsuta, Director of the Industrial Research Association, to the extra-market manipulations by Axis residents in -the-United -States in an effort to salvage their funds from the Freezing Act of June 14.

In a signed article in the "Yomiuri," Mr Kntsuta asserts that the Axis nationals have apparently been taking dollar funds out of the United States in the form of Japanese bonds with the consequent rise in New York quotations over the Japanese market level which has been pegged at Yen 350,360 since the Government imposed a tax of 6.5 per cent on the bonds. The recent gain is a complete reversal from the past tendencies, Mr Katsuta points out, recalling that the quotations fell from $100 in 1936 to .572 following the outbreak of the China war in July, 1937, and also dropped to $50 after the announcement of the tripartite alliance in September, 1940.

review of the events of the past weeks or two gives signs of encouragement for the Allied cause. The Germans are gaining successes in the Russian campaign. They had the tremendous advantage of launching an unexpected offensive all along the thousand mile frontier and it would have been strange indeed if their masses of aircraft and tanks had not made some inroads. The Russians, however, are inflicting heavy losses as they fall back. That is a cause of great gratification to us. The Germans have as yet made little penetration Russia proper and have not yet -met-the-natural-obstacles-of_theterrain which await their further advance. If the Red Army can hold out until the winter Hitler will have suffered a very serious blow indeed.

Another cause for thankfulness in these days when a crumb of comfort is like an extra ration of food at Home is the respite that Britain has had from intensive bombing. gives the people a chance to smile, it gives our air defences an opportunity of readjusting themselves, and our land and air forces a chance of training manoeuvres. There is good reason to hope that the Battle. of the Atlantic has lessened in tempo of late. For one thing we have so consistently blasted U-Boat bases that we must have reduced their facilities and secondly our much damaged docks have had a few weeks in which to take in and despatch cargo without interference. We have received substantial reinforcements from Canada where number of finished airmen turned out. We can expect them in England in the autumn.

In addition, its advantages of speed visibility and manoeuvrability enables air power to act as the commanding element in guiding and directing naval units below. While convoys seek to reduce the total damage and thus win time, the ultimate answer in the battle of the Atlantic will be given by aviation.

No Surprise

Contrary to the popular conception, Germany's assault on ocean commerce from the skies is not a "surprise," except to military leaders who kept their minds hermetically senled against new ideas. Experts in nerial strategy for years have foreseen and warned against the certainty that blockade, in the past a purely naval job, would become inmost countries, including our own, re-created in all their varied novelty. Scurrying over the hard surface of the rink like dare-devil hockey players at a Canadian ice carnival, we wind in and out of the happy, pleasure-seeking throng of youth and age, crackerjack skaters and stumbling tyros. The dull roar of whirring wheels, the bursts of delighted laughter and the lilting dance tunes from the electric symphonola fed with ten-cent pieces create a captivating atmosphere.

The roller-skating rink is a comparative newcomer to China. Introduced some four or five years ago into Shanghai by some go-getting Yankee promoter, it immediately made a hit. The Chinese gave the sport a big hand, and skating rinks sprang up like mushrooms after rain. The cosmopolitan crowd of China's premier scaport took to roller-skating as naturally as Donald Duck's feathered tribe takes to water, and soon every Shanghai citizen was roller-skating conscious. As a result of this pepping up of roller-skating activities in business, the skating rinks are well attended. In large cities, you can't go barging over the pavement with impunity as you may do in small towns, and if you want to roller-skate, you generally have to do it in the arena of a capacious rink. This means of course, encouraging the sport so that it has become a hardy perennial.

A good camera position, sunshine striking at an angle, and a tree for "framing"—all help make a pleasing home picture. Good shots at home are easy with any camera. TIOW many good pictures of your | the house appears to tilt in your Al home do you have in the snapshot collection? And are they really good ones? You know, It's just as easy to take a good picture as any other kind-and much more satisfying. Most folks made two mistakes in picturing a house. First they choose the wrong viewpoint; second, they tilt the camera upward. Maybe you don't make these mistakes-and if that's the case, your pletures of home are probably better than average. Good camera position, and a properly levelled camera, are "half the pleture." A straight front view of a house | also lends attractiveness. Notice is soldom the best view. Usually a diagonal view-the way you first see the house as you come along the street-is preferable. It's less formal, and more natural. This is the view chosen for the house in the picture above—obviously more attractive than a "head-on" shot The level camera is important because, if you tilt the camera up, picture. This can be avoided by shooting from a greater distance, which enables you to get all the house in without tilting the lens upward. Or, you can shoot from a higher position, which holts too.

A sunny day is best for house piotures. Pick an hour when the sun strikes at an angle, as this shows up the details - the lines of the weatherboarding, the window outlines, and other features.

You do not need to show all of the house in every picture. An attractive decrease or window bay, a gabled end - these alone make highly 'effective shots. "Framing" In the picture above how the large tree and everhanging branches have been used to make a pleasant natural "frame." Try these ideas on your house. They're simple—but they yield the best shots-and your home should by all means bo presented attractively in the album.
